Case - Timothy M. Pfeiffer,
Subject - Homicide, New Brunswick, N.J.,
Operative - 312.

November 21, 1922. Continuing on the above matter, Operative reported at the plant of the International Motor Co., New Brunswick, N.J., for work at 7 a.m.

Operative worked along side of Fred Rinehart all during the day, but could not in anyway lead him into discussion concerning the case.

During noon hour while down in the lunchroom of the factory, Operative observed Mr. Easton and a young man employee in conversation - Drawing near Operative overheard Mr. Easton to remark to the young man:- "I know you and all that, but I don't care to talk about the case, as I have been bored to death by reporters, they have been running around here taking my picture and all that; I have made up my mind not to say anything to anyone." Mr. Easton then left the young man and proceeded upstairs. The young man who had been talking to Mr. Easton, then turned to Operative and remarked, "The old man is too foxy to say anything - One day after the Gibson story came out, a couple of reporters came up to the factory and entered the lunchroom and got in conversation with Mr. Easton; after the reporters left Mr. Easton that day they went out and wrote up a big story about him; since then he will not talk to anyone concerning the case."

At 5 p.m. Operative quit work, proceeded to his room, and after changing his clothing and having supper proceeded to the railroad station. Operative could not gain anything of importance at the railroad station.

At about 10.18 p.m. Operative boarded a train bound towards New York, and joined Mr. DeM. Operative rode with Mr. DeM. to Newark, N.J., and then returned to New Brunswick, N.J., and proceeded to his room and discontinued.
